NEW CHURCH PLANNED

THE CONGREGATIONALISTS TO ERECT EDIFICE ON SITE OF PRESENT BUILDING

An important improvement which will materially benefit Central Avenue and be an asset to the city architecturally, is being planned by the Congregationalists of Glendale. They have gone about it very quietly, but very thoroughly, with no doubt of their ability to put it through, and the encouragement already received has been such that they expect to close the campaign about the first of December.

The pleasant, cosy, little brown church they have been occupying on Central avenue at the corner of California has many pleasant associations for pastor and people, but it is no longer adequate to the needs of the society, so a new church is being planned to be erected on the same site. An initial expenditure of $25,000 is the present goal, but that will doubtless be increased to $35,000 at some future date when it is provided with a pipe organ and all the necessary furnishings of a modern church auditorium, Sunday School department, social rooms, etc. It is a fine site for such a church building near the business heart of the city, but on the western side which has but one other church.

Plans have not yet been considered. Those, it was agreed, could wait until the funds had been subscribed for the church. Members were a unit in the decision not to have a spade put into the ground for the foundation until the money to pay for it was in sight.

The campaign committee consists of H. W. Yarrick, chairman; W. J. Button, Blake Franklin and E. D. Yard, with a number of volunteer assistants. One very encouraging feature of their canvass has been the pledges that have come to them from friends of the church in Glendale who are outside of the congregation showing that the project makes a general appeal to the community as a good thing which they are willing to push along.

Of course definite plans and styles of architecture have not been considered, but with pledges coming in steadily those questions will soon have to be faced. A church planning committee has been appointed to make preliminary investigations which consists of Dr. E. H. Willisford, chairman; S. R. Frazee, Hartley Shaw, Mrs. A. S. Chase and W. J. Button. They will probably visit churches and study plans, coming together in the near future to compare notes and discuss what they have seen.

Should present prospects be realized and the campaign for funds end as promised by December first, construction work would begin the early part of next year. Those who have the matter most closely at heart declare it is to be a Glendale church in every sense of the word, that the local money which goes into it will be expended to the fullest possible extent for local materials and local labor.

The new church has been a pleasant dream of the congregation for some time. The war put a ban on all such constructive enterprise, but with that ban removed the project has been taken up with so much enthusiasm that Central avenue will very soon be adorned with a handsome new church edifice.

BEAUTY IN BUILDING

PASADENA AND OTHER SOUTHERN CITIES SEEKING ARCHITECTURAL IMPROVEMENT

There are many indications that in the process of evolution the responsibilities taken over by municipalities in connection with the buildings which make up their cities are to be increased along aesthetic lines. Every city now has its building ordinance which makes certain requirements but heretofore beauty has not entered into the proposition. A man was privileged to erect almost any kind of a structure so far as looks are concerned provided it fulfilled the conditions of the building ordinance or the zone, business or otherwise, in which it found a place. The European travel which so many of our ex-service men had in connection with the war seems to have awakened civic consciousness to architectural beauty which is conspicuously displayed in Paris. As a result a co-operative movement is starting to improve conditions in that respect in this country. Glendale's neighbor, Pasadena, is considering the matter and has called in consultation the architects of the city

MISS SMITH A BRIDE

WELL-KNOWN GLENDALE BUSINESS WOMAN MARRIED SATURDAY

Miss Mabel G. Smith of this city and George L. Bowman of Peoria, Ill., were married Saturday morning, November 15th, at 10:30 o'clock, at the residence of Dr. I. A. Evans, retired rector of St. Stephens Episcopal Church in Los Angeles. Only the immediate family was present. After the ceremony the wedding party returned to Glendale to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra F. Parker, 121 West Maple street, where the wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman left immediately by motor for a honeymoon trip through Southern California and later will go to New Orleans en route to Peoria, Ill., where they will be at home to their friends after January 1st.

The bride was long connected with the Bank of Glendale as assistant cashier and resigned recently to marry Mr. Bowman, who is a grain man connected with the Board of Trade in Peoria.

ROOSEVELT FUND

J. H. BRALY SUBMITS ITEMIZED REPORT OF GLENDALE'S VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS

A fine, business-like report of contributions to the Roosevelt Memorial Fund, which were turned in to the banks, the schools and cerain organizations of Glendale, has been furnished by J. H. Braly, chairman for Glendale, and is published herewith.

In this connection Mr. Braly has asked the Glendale Evening News to extend his personal thanks to each and every one who contributed to this cause—so dear to his heart—especially the children of the Glendale schools, both grammar and high, and to Superintendent Richardson D. White, Principal George U. Moyse and Professor Harry Howe for this efficient work in this connection. He also wishes to thank the banks for their kind co-operation. He was informed at the Roosevelt Fund headquarters in Los Angeles that Glendale had done better, pro rata, than any of the towns of he county with the exception of Pasadena. This is especially pleasing to him because no drive was made here. All the funds given were voluntary tributes of respect to the great American who has passed to the beyond and endorsements of the things he stood for.

Each of the schools will receive from Mr. Braly a handsome certificate testifying to its contributions to the fund and copies of the report together with a receipt for funds turned over to Mr. Braly are being sent to Mr. Moyse and Mr. Howe as representatives of the High School dna to Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools.

SECRETARY OF TREASURY RESIGNS

CARTER GLASS RETIRES TO ACCEPT APPOINTMENT AS SENATOR FROM VIRGINIA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—It was stated authoritively at the White House today that Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass will soon resign and accept appointment as United States Senator from Virginia. The senatorship, which is now vacant, has been offered him by Governor Davis of Virginia.

Glass made his decision to resign after the president had strongly urged him to accept the senatorship. He probably will not resign for a week despite the need of his democratic vote in the Senate's treaty fight.

Charles Hamlin, member of the Federal Reserve Board, Director of Finances Shurley of the Raidroad Administration and Oscar Price, formerly of the Railroad Administration and now head of the United Artists' Corporation, a motion picture enterprise, are mentioned as possible successors. Hamlin seems to be "high man" in the discussion here.

KERN COUNTY OIL LANDS

DECISIONS OF JUDGE BLEDSOE FAVORABLE TO S. P. ARE UPSET BY SUPREME COURT RULING

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—The decision of the Supreme Court in the Elk Hills case which involves title to six thousand acres of Kern county oil land affects half a million acres of California oil land held by the Southern Pacific or its subsidiaries.

Federal Judge Bean originally decided the cases in favor of the government and the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed Bean's decision. Now the Supreme Court has reversed the Circuit Court of Appeals. In the meantime Federal Judge Bledsoe had decided a large number of similar suits involving vast oil holdings on the basis of the circuit court's decision and in favor of the Southern Pacific. The government has appealed these cases.

SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST S. P.

SUSTAINS GOVERNMENT'S CONTENTION OF FRAUD IN GETTING TITLE TO OIL LANDS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Supreme Court today decided in favor of the government the so-called "Elk Hills Case" in which the government had charged that the Southern Pacific fraudulently obtained title to six thousand acres of Kern county oil land. The government alleged that the Southern Pacific agentts swore falsely in obtaining the land under a government grant which provided that the railroad should have the land if it did not contain minerals. The railroad answered that its agents could not tell if the land contained oil and also questioned whether oil is "mineral" under the terms of the grant. In its decision the court said:

"The lands at the time the patents were issueed were known to be valuable for oil. Correspondence between officers showed they believed the lands had much oil value.

EARLY RETURNS FROM FRENCH ELECTIONS SHO WTHAT RADICALS HAVE LOST GROUND EVERYWHERE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Although the result of yesterday's parliamentary elections is not ready for announcement, everything indicates a sweeping repudiation of the socialists. Late returns show that the radicals have lost ground everywhere. The returns in 27 districts show the Republicans have won ten seats, the Progressives nine, the Liberals ten, the radicals had lost seventeen seats, the socialists ten and the conservatives two.

CLASS DINNER

Young people of the Congregational Church enjoyed a class dinner which was served Saturday evening at the home of their teacher, Dr. E. H. Willisford. It was quite an elaborate function of several courses served at a beautifully appointed table centered with roses about 6:30, covers being laid for Misses Harriet and Anna Van Pelt, Richard Van Pelt, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stadt, Ruby Farnsworth, Frances Porter, Hanford Richards, Margery Tyler, Elizabeth Bullard, Elsie Tyler, Hazel Tyler, Eustace and Robert Rowley, Earl Kingsley, Philip Davis, Rhuark Dudley, Carol Willisford, Ralph Hutchinson, Edna Farner, Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Willisford. Several other members of the class were unable to be present.

Following the dinner class officers were elected as follows: President, Miss Harriet Van Pelt; vice-president, Eustace Rowley; secretary-treasurer, J. M. Stadt; chairman of membership, Mary Tyler; chairman of social committee, Rhuark Dudley.

W. J. Raymond, son of Mrs. Catherine Raymond, and Miss Priscilla Wieland, of Seattle, were united in marriage at the home of the groom's mother, 220 North Verdugo Road. VISIT THE NORTH

MR. AND MRS. H. L. BROWN RETURN FROM THE APPLE ORCHARDS OF WASHINGTON

The anxieties of Mrs. H. L. Brown of 1120 South San Fernando in connection with the illness of an aunt at San Dimas to whom she was tenderly attached, were terminated by the death of the elderly woman who has left an estate in Washington to Mrs. Brown's daughter, Miss Enid Deeds. Mr. and Mrs. Brown have just returned from a trip to inspect the property which is located at Cashmere in Wenatchee county. It consists of apple orchards, timber and alfalfa land and is beautifully situated, Mrs. Brown says. She enjoyed the trip immensely as it was the first time she had gone as far north. Seattle and Spokane, which she and Mr. Brown visited en route, impressed her greatly and in the city last named both experienced their first snow storm. She had, of course, seen snow in the mountains of Southern California, but had never been snowed on and it was to her a most interesting experience. She found the change of climate stimulating and says she felt fine all the time she was away.

The sight of the apple orchards hanging full of beautiful red fruit, the fruity smell in the air and the bustling activity at he big packing houses which handle he apples of that region also entertained her greatly. She says the apples of Cashmere are pronounced the finest of the whole Wenatchee valley.

Her daughter, Miss Deeds, is leaving Friday for the county seat of Wenatchee to attend the preliminary legal proceedings in connection with the proving up of the estate, which she is planning to retain for a year or two even if she should decide eventually to sell it. At present it is leased to a tenant. She will be detained there about two weeks and will have to go again to complete legal proceedings in about six months.

THREE FIRES

OWNER OF GLENDALE CREAMERY APPRECIATES EFFICIENT WORK OF FIRE LADDIES

Saturday afternoon and Sunday the Glendale fire laddies had a chance to earn their salaries and give a practical demonstration of efficiency. The first afternoon call on Saturday at 4:25 o'clock came from the home of Mr. Wellman at 334 El Bonita avenue whose brush fire had gotten away from him. It was extinguished before any real damage was done. Almost immediately after Truck No. 2 had responded to that call came a summons to Station No. 1 from the home of Juan Meza at 339 North Geneva street, which had been ignited from a fire in a wood stove. It was so far advanced when the engine arrived that it was not possible to save it, as the building was of cheap consruction. The loss was estimated at $500. The fact that the calls came so close together and that the engines went in different directions created the impression in the minds of the public that the firemen had made a mistake in directions which they were trying to rectify.

The third call came Sunday morning about seven o'clock and was turned in by citizens in the neighborhood of the Glendale Creamery at Doran and San Fernando. The delivery wagons had just gone out and all the men ordinarily around the barns were away. The neighbors discovered fire in one of the barns and notified the Fire Department which arrived barely in time to save several tons of hay stacked near the barn. Had that caught, it would have been a much more difficult fire fighting proposition. As it was, the barn damage amounted to about $500 and there was an additional loss of $200 from the burning of nine hogs, all of which was covered by insurance. Mr. MacMullin, owner and manager, was so appreciative of the efficient work of the firemen that he invited them in and treated them to coffee and cigars.

TRAVEL DISCOMFORTS

MRS. MATTISON B. JONES TELLS OF CONGESTION IN TRAINS AND HOTELS

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, who was confined to her bed for several days as a result of a severe cold contracted on her return journey from Washington is now able to be up and around. The cold, she says, was the direct result of the car congestion caused by the heavy travel, especially the travel this way. In view of the long waits so many travelers had to endure they thought they were exceedingly fortunate to get reservations promptly, but on taking the train they found they had been assigned to one of the old, old sleepers resurrected from some storage yard. Its heating system allowed for no adjustment. Heat was either on or off. As a result the negro porter nearly smothered the passengers the first part of the night and they were forced to open windows wide to breathe. When Mrs. Jones waked in the morning she was stiff with cold and found a little drift of snow across the blankets. They were able to change sleepers the next day but by that time the mischief had been done as far as she and Mr. Jones were concerned.

One of the things that greatly impressed her during her tour was the way people are traveling and spending money everywhere, and the congestion and poor service at the hotels, even the largest, most expensive ones. In the Washington cafes a 25c tip was loked upon with contempt and they found to get any kind of service it was necessary to expend in tips the equivalent of the cost of the meal. There were individual exceptions, however, in the matter of waiters—who, by the way, Mrs. Jones says, are many of them foreigners who make one fear they may be spies. The exceptional waiter they discovered in Washington was a man who overheard them talking of Los Angeles and of good things to eat to be had at the Brother Jonathan Club. It developed hat he had been a waiter there and any one from Los Angeles was to him like an old friend. After that they had the best at his command whenever they patronized the hotel in which he was employed. Prices were staggering also. On reaching Chicago, where they had five hours to wait, they engaged a hotel room in which Mrs. Jones rested for about an hour. For its use they were charged $10. Hotel managers say they are doing the best they can but that help is very hard to get and very independent and unreliable. Not until they got into the old South where there was colored help "that stepped around like the old-time religion" did Mrs. Jones find good service.

When she heard the women she met in the east and on the train talking about their trials with servants and their domestic problems she realized as never before how fortunate the majority of Southern California women are in being so situated that they can get along without a servant in the house.

Everywhere they went in the east people were talking about California as the dreamed-of place, the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, and when they turned their faces westward they found the travel coming this way simply enormous.

to formulate a policy which will make construction in the business section compare favorably with the residence sections for which the Crown City is famed. The same movement is on in Santa Barbara, Riverside, Fullerton, Ojai and several other cities of California. Ojai is an excellent example of the carrying out of a harmonious scheme of architecture for in that city all the buildings on the main business street were constructed in mission style several years ago.

The movement in Pasadena is headed by Rev. Ellis Bishop, who, in a recent interview, said:

"Those familiar with what has been accomplished in beauty of architecture of buildings used for commercial purposes abroad, know how well worth while the effort in this direction is. In French cities one is struck by the beauty of design in the shops and factories. But this is not confined to Europe. America is catching the spirit and all over the east the same thing is emerging. On Fifth Avenue in New York the ugly, colorless, and conventional shop, is fast being replaced by buildings varying in style and architecture but uniform in beauty of design. In one or two small centers in Massachusetts where a central committee has been chosen to pass on plans, the entire village in its business district has been transformed from a thing of ugliness to a thing of beauty. An interesting group of such buildings may be seen at Beverly Farms. Throughout New England there are springing up factories of all sorts which are architecturally good and an addition to the landscape. What a contrast to the old unsightly factory of the past! A thing to be emphasized is that such a plan does not add to the expense of the building."

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS SOCIAL

The Men's Bible Class of the First English Lutheran Church were most pleasantly entertained Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Esterly, of 363 Salem street. Some of the "better halves" and the prospective "better halves," as well as a few of the Juniors and near by neighbors increased the happy company to about thirty persons.

An impromptu musical program was rendered. Miss Elizabeth Mottern delighted the guests with both vocal and instrumental solos. Miss Mary Louise Hand gave one of her inimitable birdlike whistling solos. We have heard nothing better than this effort anywhere. Three of the Juniors, Master Milo Sherrick with a violin, and the Misses Louise Daugherty and Mary Sherrick, with two beautiful vocal duets, concluded this musical treat.

The ladies then announced the presence of a score of well-baked and decorated pies. Mr. Hoffman took the floor as auctioneer, and it was soon apparent he was no amateur. Men like good pies, and they shortly bought them at an average price of $1.00 each. When the men had found the ladies who had baked their pies, they sat down to enjoy the pie and coffee feast together. Few fragments remained at the conclusion of this part of the social.

A musical contest was then introduced, Miss Mottern played on the piano brief parts of 16 religious and popular airs. Miss Esterly captured the prize, guessing fifteen of the tunes correctly.

We are sure that every guest evidenced sincere pleasure at being permitted to enjoy the evening with the Men's Class at this hospitable home.

POLICE RECORDS

Times are dull at the Police Department. But two items have been placed on the records since last Friday. One of these relates to the disappearance of the Jersey cow of Mrs. Blucher at 610 West Broadway. Whether the cow struck because she thought she was not getting her share of the big returns from her product, or whether some thirsty milk lover annexed her, has not yet been learned by police officials.

The second item on the record concerned the theft of a bicycle belonging to Randolph Blair at 632½ East Broadway, which was taken Friday evening from in front of the Palace Grand Theatre.

Blake Franklin is making a business tour of Texas cities and is expected to be gone about two weeks.

H. D. Goss of 510 East Harvard street left this morning on a business trip to Calexico for the Westinghouse people.

Maurice B. Hartmann, of 744 East Wilson avenue, left Sunday morning for the east accompanied by the daughter who has been his guest for several weeks. Her home is in Minnesota where Mr. Hartmann still has business interests. She is trying to persuade her father to join her in spending the winter in Florida and he may decide to do so.

WHY WE CAME TO GLENDALE

In August we came to Southern California, the land of sunshine and flowers, in search of a home. Passing a real estate office one day, we were attracted by a fine relief map of Los Angeles and environs. Mr. Real Estate tried to interest us in a particular suburb. "But," said we, "the altitude seems too low." In a few words we made clear just what sort of a place we were looking for. He replied, "Have you seen Glendale?" We had not so much as heard of Glendale. "Well, I believe that place might suit you. Take the car right out there, going north." We said, "Thank you," for this disinterested information and advice.

An hour later the home-seeker alighted at corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway. He made a beeline for the corner drug store, almost intuitively, quenched his thirst at the soda fountain, and then began to cross-question the little man about Glendale. How long have you resided here? Have you come from the East? For business? "No, for health sake," he replied. "I tried almost every place around Los Angeles, and no place seemed to suit me. Finally, some one said, "Have you tried Glendale? That was ten years ago, and we are still here." The new home-seeker heard these things, and began to feel he was on the right trail. How about Glendale churches and schools? "Fine," said the little man, and handed the home-seeker a directory. He studied it awhile, to his satisfaction, and incidentally noticed that taxes were lower than elsewhere, and took more courage. Laying down the book, and thanking the little man heartily for such courteous information, the visitor went his way, asking questions of business men, property-holders, gardeners and others, until his question box felt empty. "All you need to do is to turn on the water here," said a happy man in his vacant lot garden. That sounded good. Strolling on further the home-seeker saw one or two "For Sale" boards, and proceeded to ask prices, face to face with the owners. Then he found out how a real estate man manages to make an honorable living. There were two prices. "If no real estate man sent you around, this is my price to you," said the owner. But the home-seeker felt that the real estate man filled an important place in any community, and he sought one. Past office hours. All locked up. No, there was just one industrious hustler at his desk in the evening twilight, and we freely asked questions. Joe answered them all, and said, "Come again."

Two days later Mr. Home-seeker accompanied by his wife and his sister walked in to see Joe, the real estate man, again. We stated clearly what kind of a place was desired, and he said, "I think we have what you want." In a few minutes we were Forded to number one. Too much shade. Number two. We were welcomed at the front door by the owner, walked through every room and out the back door into the garden—fruit trees, garage and all. Home-seeker said to his wife: "This looks good to me," and she replied: "And to me." Said he: "Why waste our time going further?" An hour later they were enjoying a dinner in the Boulevard Cafeteria happy that a contract had been signed, and in escrow, for a home in the cleanest, most beautiful, and most healthful suburb of Los Angeles.

And so, thanks to the Providence of God, and the unfailing courtesy of every one whom we plied with questions, we are at home in Glendale, and have a desire to be helpers and lifters, in making this prosperous town, as nearly an ideal place to live in, as may be found this side of Heaven.

RELIABILITY AND

are characteristics that appeal to the business judgment of the prospective builder.

If it is a school, a church, or other public building, or a home that is being planned, the builders give the firm they select as contractors a very important commission. Naturally there are things about building that the owners do not know and they want to employ contractors whom they need not fear will "put one over on them" even in the least important detail.

C. W. Kent & Son years ago laid a business foundation, the cornerstone of which was integrity. Other stones were added, reliability, good work, fair dealings, etc. On this foundation began to rise fair monuments to our business reputation all over the South, until today we point proudly to many beautiful, enduring structures that are our handiwork.

We do not fear the strongest light of publicity upon our work or our business dealings. We have taken great pleasure in commissions well executed and contracts faithfully carried out. Our motto is not "Give us a trial." We have been tried and our reputation has long been established.

TUJUNGA

The reception to the teachers, Prof. Wright and Mrs. Maud Johnston, at Bolton Hall, Friday night, was attended by a large number of people and was a decided success in every way. Light refreshments were served very efficiently by the young people under the direction of the school trustees.

Wilmot Parcher, president of the School Board, presided in his usual felicitous manner, making appropriate remarks and heartily welcoming the teachers.

Rev. W. H. Wieman spoke on "Ballistics," that is how to taech the young idea to shoot straight. F. M. Ashby spoke on "The Little Red School House," relating his experience as a teacher in such a school in New England. Jas. Taylor sang a comic song about "Kelley." Dr. C. C. Buck gave two vocal selections: "I Hear You Calling Me" and "Absent," with Mrs. Buck as accompanist. Tuesday was a very busy day at Tujunga, not there was any Armistice celebration, but the number of people who were here to look for lots kept the many salesmen very busy all day. It was an ideal day warm and beautiful. Many people claimed that the raise in rents was forcing them to look for land and build homes of their own, as well as the high cost of living forced them to seek a place where they could do with less than the big cities require. New streets are being opened, and water mains put in to meet the demands of newcomers. Carpenters and stone masons are very much in demand. Not a vacant house is in the place, and a number have put up tents to cover them, until houses can be built.

Mrs. Woodruff's brother, Morris Blanchard, and wife, arrived on Tuesday evening from South Dakota, to spend the winter in Southern California. She has not seen him in a number of years.

Everyone was very much shocked at the news of the death of Mrs. Porier, of El Centro street, who was killed in the automobile accident near Montrose. Mr. Porier had but just completed his beautiful home in Tujunga and was prepared to enjoy his life in our midst. All who know them extend sympathy to him in his bereavement.
